d) Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow.

Albert Einstein, known for his brilliance in physics, had a reputation for being absentminded. One day, as he was traveling to deliver a lecture at a university, Einstein's driver, who resembled him in appearance, offered a suggestion.

"Professor Einstein," said the driver, "I've heard your lecture so many times that I could deliver it myself. Why don't you take a break and let me do it?"

Einstein, amused by the idea, agreed and swapped places with his driver. As the driver delivered the lecture, Einstein, disguised as the driver, sat among the audience, enjoying the role reversal.

To his surprise, the driver delivered the lecture flawlessly, capturing Einstein's ideas and theories with remarkable accuracy. However, during the question-and-answer session that followed, a particularly challenging question was posed.

The driver, unfazed, replied, "Well, the answer to that question is quite simple. In fact, it's so simple that I'll let my driver in the audience answer it."

The audience burst into laughter as Einstein, still disguised as the driver, stood up and provided the correct answer, much to everyone's amusement.

This anecdote highlights Einstein's playful nature and his ability to find humor in everyday situations, even while sharing his profound insights with the world.

- i) Which word in the passage means 'exchanged'?

- iii) How did the driver perform during the lecture?
- iv) What happened during the question-and-answer session?
- v) What does the anecdote reveal about Einstein's personality?
- e) Make Notes on the following passage.

Climate change poses significant threats to biodiversity worldwide. Rising temperatures and erratic weather patterns are disrupting ecosystems, leading to habitat loss and fragmentation. This displacement forces species to migrate, impacting genetic diversity and increasing extinction risks. Moreover, climate change affects reproductive cycles and behaviours, causing mismatches in key life events like flowering and migration. These disruptions exacerbate existing threats like habitat destruction and pollution, pushing species towards extinction. Urgent action is needed to address these challenges. Efforts to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, protect natural habitats, and promote sustainable practices are essential. By mitigating climate change impacts, we safeguard biodiversity and maintain ecosystem services vital for human well-being. This requires global cooperation and policy interventions to ensure a sustainable future for all life on Earth.

- d) Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow.

India has two national languages for central administrative purposes: Hindi and English. Hindi is the national, official, and main link language of India, English is an official language. The Indian Constitution also officially approves twenty-two regional languages for official purposes.

In India, English serves two purposes. First, it provides a linguistic tool for the administrative cohesiveness of the country, causing people who speak different languages to become united. Secondly, it serves as a language of wider communication, including a large variety of different people covering a vast area. It overlaps with local languages in certain spheres of influence and in public domains.

Generally, English is used among Indians as a 'link' language and it is the first language for many well-educated Indians. It is also the second language for many who speak more than one language in India. The English language is a tie that helps bind the many segments of our society together. Also, it is a linguistic bridge between the major countries of the world and India.

- e. Make notes on the following passage.

Conversation is indeed the most easily teachable of all arts. All you need to do, in order to become a good conversationalist is to find a subject that interests you and your listeners. There are, for example, numberless hobbies to talk about. But the important thing is that you must talk about other fellow's hobbies rather than your own. Therein lies the secret of your popularity. Talk to your friends about the things that interest them, and you will get a reputation for good fellowship, charming wit, and a brilliant mind. There is nothing that pleases people so much as your interest in their interest.

To be a good conversationalist you must know not only what to say, but how else to say it. Be mentally quick and witty. But don't hurt others with your wit. Finally try to avoid mannerism in your conversation. Don't bite your lips or click your tongue, or roll your eyes or use your hands excessively as you speak.

5. Read the following passage and answer the questions that follows:-

(5×1=5)

a) In the first season my crop was good enough to satisfy me, especially the beans and potatoes. The next year did better still, for I dug all the land needed, about a third of an acre, with a spade. I learned from the experience of both years that if one would live simple and eat only the crop which he raised, and raise no more than he ate, then he would need to plant only a small piece of ground. Ancient poetry and old stories suggest that farming was once a holy art; but people farm today with unholy haste and thoughtlessness. Our purpose now is merely to have large farms and large crops. Today the farmer is interested only in the wealth he can obtain from the soil. By greed and selfishness, and a habit of regarding the soil as property, the face of the land is made ugly, farming is lowered in dignity and the farmer leads the meanest of lives.

- Which crops grew well in the first season?
- How much land did the narrator dig the next year?
- What does ancient poetry suggest about farming?
- How is soil regarded today?
- What is the suggestion of author?
